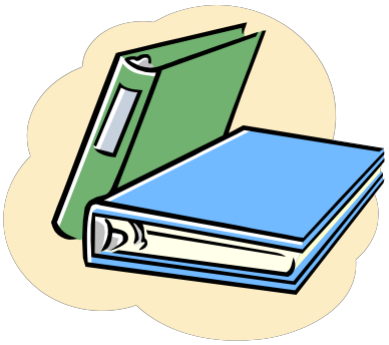
Creating Your Care Notebook

Follow These Steps to Create Your Child's Care Notebook:



Step 1: Gather existing information

- ◊ Gather together any health information you already have about your child. This may include reports from recent doctor's visits, recent summary of a hospital stay, this year's school plan, test results, or informational pamphlets.

Step 2: Review the Care Notebook

- ◊ Which of these pages could help you keep track of information about your child's health or care?
- ◊ Choose the pages you like. Print copies of any that you think you will use. You can get additional Care Notebook pages at http://phpa.dhmh.maryland.gov/genetics/SitePages/create_care_notebook.aspx
- ◊ Here are some websites that have resources for customizing your care notebook: http://www.medicalhomeinfo.org/for_families/care_notebook/care_notebook.aspx

  http://www.delawarefamilytofamily.org/care_notebook.htm

  http://cshcn.org/planning-record-keeping/care-notebook

Step 3: Decide what to keep in the Care Notebook

- ◊ What information do you look up most often?
- ◊ What information do people caring for your child need?
- ◊ Consider storing other information in a file drawer or box where you can find it if needed.

Step 4: Put the Care Notebook together

- ◊ Each of us has our own way of organizing information. The key is to make it easy for you to find again.
- ◊ Some suggestions for supplies used to create a Care Notebook:
  3-ring notebook or large accordion envelope will hold papers securely.
  Tabbed dividers to create your own sections.
  Pocket dividers to store reports.
  Plastic pages to store business cards and photographs.

Health Care As You Move to Adult Life
Maryland Office for Genetics and People with Special Health Care Needs
For more information visit:
http://phpa.dhmh.maryland.gov/genetics/SitePages/home.aspx

Health care is important to be successful in the transition to work, independent living and adult life. As an adult, your child may take on more responsibility for their healthcare. Some pediatricians will see young adults until they are 21 years old. Unless your child sees a doctor that cares for both children and adults, he or she will need to transition to an adult doctor at some point. This is important because good health habits and health problems change as we get older. Here are some things you and/or your child will need to do:

- Learn about your health issues and how to explain your healthcare needs. Make a list of all the things you will need to keep yourself healthy.
- See your doctor on a regular basis (at least once a year) to help you stay healthy and see a dentist every 6 months. You can start at your next visit, even while you are still seeing a pediatric doctor.
    - Write down questions before your visit.
    - Spend time alone with your doctor or the nurse to discuss your health concerns.

- Check to see if your immunizations (shots) are up to date.
- Make sure that you know how to tell when you need medical attention quickly. Know when and where to call.
- Keep a record of your appointments, medical history, medications and phone numbers of doctors.
- Begin to make your own medical appointments and fill your own prescriptions.
- Learn about your health insurance and what it pays for. Know what you need to do to keep your insurance active.
- Talk to your doctor about when is a good time for you to transfer your care to a doctor who cares for adults and develop a plan.
- Keep a notebook that helps prepare you to transfer to your new doctor. The notebook should contain important information about your medical history, medications, specialists, and insurance.
- Be involved in decisions affecting your health care, like choosing a doctor and making decisions about health insurance.
- REMEMBER, BEING INDEPENDENT DOES NOT MEAN YOU HAVE TO DO THINGS ALONE. It means you take responsibility, and that you ask for help and support when you need it.
- Ask questions! Be part of the plan!

Getting Started:

____ I know the names of my medical conditions and how they affect me.

____ I know the names of my medications, what they are for, and when to take them.

____ I know the name of my doctor(s) and how to make an appointment if I need one.

____ I know how to get my prescriptions filled.

____ I know what my insurance options are once I turn 18. Maryland Transitioning Youth (http://www.mdtransition.org/Health%20Care.htm or 1-800-637-4113) can help you get started, or check with your service or transition coordinator.

____ I have adult health care providers who accept my insurance. Ask for a list of providers from your insurance company, or if you have already chosen a doctor, ask if they take your insurance.

____ I have checked if my adult insurance will cover all of my health care needs (such as medicines, therapies and medical equipment). If not, I have looked into other options for assistance. Maryland Transitioning Youth (http://www.mdtransition.org/Health%20Care.htm or 1-800-637-4113) can help you get started, or check with your service or transition coordinator.

Care Summary:
Transitions-Looking Ahead

Your child and family may go through or have many transitions, small and large, over the years. Three key transitions are: when your child reaches school age, when he or she nears adolescence, and when your child moves from adolescence into adulthood. Other transitions may involve moving into new programs, working with new agencies and care providers, or making new friends. Transitions involve changes: adding new expectations, responsibilities, or resources, and letting go of others.

It's not always easy to think about the future. There may be many things, including what has to be done today, that keep you from looking ahead. It may be helpful to take some time to jot down a few ideas about your child's and family's future. What are your child's and family's strengths? How can these strengths help you plan for "what's next" and for reaching long term goals? What are your dreams and your fears about your child's and family's future?

Letter of Intent

No one lives forever, not even parents of children with disabilities. Fears about what will happen to your child after you're gone keep you from doing the very thing that will give you peace of mind: Planning. You fear that your child's quality of life may not be the same as they have now. You also know that it should not be left totally up to their sister or brother to care for them. Sometimes the thought of all of this is so overwhelming that you don't even know where to start.

This section is that starting place. It can be a way to facilitate discussion among your family members or just a way to begin organizing your own thoughts and getting them down on paper. You can begin with the less emotional section like the Personal Information before moving on to the more difficult task of choosing a Guardian. Guardianship guidelines vary from state to state. Your attorney can advise you, but not all attorneys are familiar with Special Needs Trusts. A list of attorneys who specialize in this area may be obtained through the national, state or local Arc. Update the plan annually; birthdays are a good time to do this. Don't forget to make copies and give them to all those who should know about your wishes. Planning is a process that takes time, but once you have things decided you will be able to breathe that sigh of relief knowing you no longer have to worry about the future.

TRUSTS

"Trusts are flexible legal documents by which one party leaves assets to another party (a trustee) to be used for the benefit of another person, charity, and so on. The trust instrument gives specific instructions as to how to pay out the assets. Trusts are not only for the wealthy. They represent a way to withhold assets from someone who may not be old enough, have enough experience, or have the ability to make wise decisions…

Several different trust options are now available that allow provision for people with disabilities without affecting their eligibility for Medicaid and SSI. In general, these trusts cannot be used to pay for support and care (necessities of life) without jeopardizing an individual's eligibility for Medicaid and SSI. It is also worth remembering that it does not take a great deal of money to pay only for supplemental items or luxuries. Thus, the trust doesn't need to have a great deal of money in it to accomplish its purpose." LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

"A document that might be used to more fully explain the intent of a person making a Will is called a Letter of Instruction. It may make sense to more fully express one's wishes in such a Letter of Instruction than is really proper for a legal instrument such as a Will."
